To whom it may concern,

It is my pleasure to recommend Mr. Ron Price, a Family Life and Conflict Management presenter. Mr. Price, a counselor, author, and speaker, came highly recommended to our faith community, and we would like to extend this recommendation to his clients in the future.

My name is Dr. Anton Kapusi, and I am currently the pastor at Pueblo First Seventh-day Adventist Church. I had the pleasure of organizing and having the “Play Nice in Your Sandbox at Work, at Home, at Church” with Mr. Price at our church. From the initial conversation through to the program realization, Mr. Price was timely in providing the necessary information for advertising and promoting the program. He was willing to work with our local church’s and community’s culture and setting. During the seminar, he was approachable, practical, and able to present heavy relational subjects with ease and humor. The listeners from and outside the faith community enjoyed his seminar because they were faith and culture neutral and personal.

As you (potential client) are considering inviting Mr. Price for one presentation, maybe a weekend program, or perhaps for a weeklong program, based on our experience, you will have a blessed, educational, refreshing, and overall healing time.
